

Nurses and Nurse Practitioners of BC (NNPBC)

One Nursing Association for all Nurses

Since 2013 B.C.'s four nursing designations (LPN, NP, RN and RPN) and the Nursing Education Council of BC (NECBC) have been working together on matters of health and public policy. This partnership has been extremely beneficial, yet we recognize that bringing all members of the nursing community under one association would be transformative for nursing in the province.

This partnership has been beneficial to all five groups, yet we recognize that bringing all members of the nursing community under one association would be transformative for nursing in the province.

Joining together under one umbrella allows us to:

- Be one strong, united voice to advance nursing in B.C.
- Develop programs, services and advocacy opportunities that all nurses can engage in collectively.
- Be a strong, equal supporter of all four nursing designations, retaining the important elements of individuality and autonomy, while strengthening the profession as a whole.
- Reduce overlap in administration, staffing, office and other costs.

Governance Structure

Our governance structure ensures that each of the four designations retain oversight and direction for its own members. Please visit www.nnpbc.com for more information.

FAQs

Take a few minutes to review our FAQs by going to: www.nnpbc.com/faqs.

We welcome your questions and comments to info@nnpbc.com.

